Miranda is a small storey house for a family of four people. This house characterized by a compact, easy-to-build body and modern architecture. Miranda house is created on a square covered by a gable roof. Slightly protruding garage with entrance arcade, pergola over a garden terrace, wall cladding around the windows - all these elements enrich the silhouette, giving it an attractive look. Miranda interior is divided into living and utility part on the ground floor, and bedrooms on the first floor. Living room is combined with dining area, hall with exposed staircase and open kitchen, and create a single daily space. Garage available from the atrium, and a large boiler are part of the utility part. There are three comfortable bedrooms on the first floor, with walk-in closet in the parents' bedroom, and a bathroom with laundry facilities. This house, though small size, accommodates all the necessary facilities. The rooms are spacious, and thanks to the first floor there are no bevels. Above the floor is an attic for possible adaptation. Miranda house is also available in a mirror version.
